Grown Gray in Service Not to Be Removed Except Where Inefficiency is Well Established, Says Department Head-Changes in Personnel Effective.

Maj. Richard Sylvester, superintendent of police, yesterday emphatically con-tradicted the intimation made in an afternoon paper to the effect that a policy now in vogue to remove the veteran policemen who have become less effi-cient with advancing years. The super-intendent said that while young and act-ve men are to be appointed in the future, no attempt will be made to summarily remove the veterana.

"We can't afford to remove the veteran policemen," said Maj. Sylvester. The present pension fund is so inadeuate that the men, if retired, would not be able to live respectably. We re-move the old policemen only in cases of partial or entire disability."

A Delicate Question. superintendent was asked whether here is not a number of policemen now in the force who have become inefficient tion. Veterans are removed only in where their inefficiency is well the seven establishments. But the law prevailed and the boy went away sor-established.

"If we had an adequate pension fund, matters would be different. We would then be able to retire policemen after they had reached a specified age, and give them a pension large enough to live on. Retirement would not then be dreaded so much by the men. And besides, the force could be maintained much more efficiently. The lack of adequate pension funds is a great hindrance to the work of the department."

Boy Rushes to District Building a 4:28 o'Clock, but Law Prevails. District Tax Collector Receives More Than $50,000 in Payment for Liquor Licenses.

This morning there are seven less liq-tor establishments in the District than there were last night-four less barcome and three less wholesale housesfor yesterday was the beginning of the license year, and the proprietors of the seven establishments falled to file ap-plication for renewal of license.

The law specifies that all establishments for which application for renewal of license is not filed before 4 o'clock on November I shall be closed by the police at midnight on that date. When the clock struck 4 in the excise board room at the District Building Chief Clerk Roger Williams left his desk, and, opening a large book in which applications are recorded, announced that seven establishments would have to be closed at midnight. Mr. Williams refused to give the names of the proprietors, as the law provides that secrecy be maintained.

Apothecaries, auctioners, bankers, emof poolrooms, cattle dealers, commission merchants, and scores of other classes of business men are required to make application for licenses for conducting their business on November 1.

Last year 5,807 licenses of all kinds were issued. So far only 200 applications for renewal have been made. Great leniency is shown in all cases except those of licenses for liquor establishments. About December 1 prosecutions will be conducted.
